Social climate:

COCB has identified a caring environment as one of its five core values, informed by our Biblical world view. Child protection, behaviour management and anti-bullying policies and programs are in place.

The school is characterised by good student behaviour, positive reinforcement and recognition of good behaviour, and strong pastoral care structures.

The College implemented behaviour management policies several years ago but increasingly is looking to prevention rather than response.

The secondary school embraces the notion of developing self-managing students.

Staff structures support student pastoral care through Heads of Year (Preparatory to Year 12) and pastoral care groups (7-12).

Both schools have Directors of Student Care or Management.

A Coordinator of Student Services (social worker) provides further support to staff and students.

Parental involvement:

Parents are involved in primary school class activities at the discretion of the class teacher and Year level coordinator. Involvement includes assisting in class with reading, development of resources and assisting with excursions.

Parents are involved from time-to-time in focus groups in the strategic planning process and reporting back. Parents also assist with sports days as volunteers.

Parents are actively recruited by the Development Office for work as volunteers in arranging Development Office or Year level functions, known as "Coffee Connections".

The Parents and Friends Association meets monthly, and is actively engaged in social activities and fund-raising for the benefit of students.

Value Added:

Christian Outreach College Brisbane traditionally maintains a very high percentage of students above benchmarks for literacy and numeracy.

There is little variation from year to year since this figure is already very high, usually well in excess of 90%. Specialised programs are in place for students with disabilities.

COCB continues to develop extension programs, especially for academic courses but also vocational.

Professional development of the whole staff continues all-year-round. Professional development of senior staff has increasingly centred on high quality conferences, both national and international.

Pastoral care of students remains a priority with considerable resources being directed towards this important but difficult area.

Most COCB students choose an academic course, but for those whose career direction is more strictly vocational, preparatory programs are in place.

The International Student Outreach Program includes some experiences for invited highly successful students at a selective, academic school in Singapore with whom COCB has an association. These international student events have been particularly helpful in encouraging higher ability students.

COCB alumni are invariably engaged in further study, vocational training or the workforce.

Details of academic and competition results are provided annually on the College's website.

Parent, student and teacher satisfaction:

Christian Outreach College Brisbane tracks student destinations after Year 12.

COCB reports twice yearly on student performance and attendance and provides opportunities at least twice a year for parent/teacher interaction.

The Registrar tracks reasons for students leaving COCB and seeking enrolment elsewhere, and this data receives regular scrutiny.

Parental testimonies reveal a generally high level of satisfaction.

Student attendance rates are typically very high with daily checking on reasons for absences as well as daily reporting of absences.

Teacher retention rates are traditionally very high. This trend has been sustained throughout the history of the College.

How computers are used to assist learning:

COCB has one of the largest computer networks on Brisbane's southside. The student/computer ratio is approaching 1/2.

Virtually all classrooms have computer and internet access. Numerous computer laboratories are distributed throughout the school. Connectivity is by a Novell network.

COCB is not a laptop school, but recent surveys suggest that virtually all students also have access to computer and internet from home.

Increasingly, teachers are downloading information from the internet so that classes can quickly access such material.

Many classrooms have access to data projection which teachers use extensively. Interactive whiteboards are becoming more common in classrooms.

COCB also teaches a code of conduct for computer and internet use

School progress towards its goals each year:

COCB in 2008 was in the third year of its Strategic Plan "Towards 2010". This was developed through the use of focus groups drawn from College Board, Executive, staff and parents with the final plan printed for the whole College community in January 2006.

"Towards 2010" contains COCB's vision statement, mission statement, 5 core values, and ten strategic intents.

Annual operational plans are developed from this guiding document. In 2008 aspects of each of the 10 Strategic Intents received attention, particularly Intent 2 (improving performance and appreciation of academic rigour).

Copies of the strategic plan are available from the College Office or website.

Christian Outreach College Brisbane is a ministry of Citipointe Church Brisbane, a Christian Outreach Centre.

Christian Outreach International College and Christian Outreach College Academy are wholly owned and operated subsidiaries.
